ISABELLA COULSTOCK

Supporting THE WHO on the 'The Who Hits Back' Tour 4 shows including the O2 Arena London – July 2023

Isabella is a young female independent Country/Americana singer-songwriter. From being the youngest artist to play a live Under The Apple Tree session for Bob Harris, Isabella has gone on to perform at some of the most iconic music venues in London and across the country, along with many of the biggest festivals including Black Deer and Cornbury. She regularly supports Jools Holland on tour and is currently opening 12 shows for US singer-songwriter Nell Bryden on her UK tour, she has featured on BBC and country radio stations and has many songwriting collaborations and credits to her name with some of the most respected songwriters in the industry including Chaz Jankel (Ian Dury & The Blockheads) and Mark Flanagan (Jools Holland).

Unsigned and just 21 years old as an emerging singer-songwriter in her own right, Isabella is delighted and excited at the opportunity to open for one of the biggest rock bands in the world, The Who.

Reflecting on playing at venues such as the O2 Arena, Isabella says, “Just a few weeks ago I was watching Elton John perform at the O2 Arena and thinking how magical it must be to play on such a stage in front of so many people. It is a dream, but one that inspires me to develop my music so hopefully one day I too could perform there.” Pausing for thought, Isabella adds, “I must admit I did not envisage it happening so soon, to be invited by The Who, is so incredibly exciting and a huge privilege”.

"Isabella is one of the most refreshing new talents I've heard in a long time. The originality of her songwriting is complemented by a true, clear voice and her warm on-stage personality. The sky's the limit for her."
